PLASTICS IN FOOD SERVICE PACKAGING

Materials Used For Food Packaging Manufacturing:

Fineline Settings recently bolstered its commitment to environmental responsibility by launching a new product line called ReForm. ReForm items are made utilizing up to 99% recycled polypropylene, are durable, dishwasher safe, and can be recycled again after being reused by consumers several times. It should be every food service operator's goal to utilize a container that is going to continually be reused by their valued clients and remind them of the great food they were served. All Fineline Settings products are direct food contact safe, FDA approved, BPA Free, and recyclable where recycle facilities exist. There are many important benefits to using single-use food service packaging in the food service industry.

It's More Sanitary:

Many available studies show that reusable dishes for food service and catering have higher than acceptable levels of bacteria present. Using single-use food service items insures safety, decreased chances of food borne illness and provides a measure of protection from personal contact.

Reduces Water, Energy and Labor Costs:

Using recyclable/disposable food service items reduces the amount of water and harsh detergents that are required to sanitize reusable dishes. Cleaning up after a large event is quickly and easily accomplished by a few staff members saving hours in labor costs.

No Breakage and it's light weight:

Single-use food packaging reduces workplace accidents due to broken glass or heavy lifting. Creating a safer work environment reduces potential injuries and insurance costs for food service operations.

Less Impact:

According to the latest available data from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, paper and plastic single-use packaging items make up less than 2 percent of municipal solid waste. Recycling facilities are becoming more advanced and taking advantage of recovering different types of plastics and preparing them for remanufacturing into high quality items.
